

Have you experienced homelessness? Would you like to help end homelessness in Exeter?

Exeter Homeless Partnership was formed to create a City wide approach to homelessness that everyone can feel part of. Coproduction is at the heart of everything we do. For us, this means sharing responsibility, learning as we go and involving people who have a lived experience of homelessness as equals. There are lots of different ways to join in, such as:

- Advising staff on priorities or helping design new activities
- Supporting local partners (e.g. charities and Councils) to decide how services are delivered
- Representing EHP at meetings or events to influence others
- Helping to organise events or support people who are attending
- Listening to other people and representing their views
- Designing & delivering training to local businesses
